

	Policy
	Policy Category: Health & Safety
	Date Created: November 2016
	Policy Name: HS31 Child Protection Policy

Purpose

The purpose of this operational policy is to

- detail the definition of neglect and abuse of a child to establish a common understanding within our centre;
- detail how centre management and staff will ensure children are appropriately protected from neglect, abuse and harm
- explain our commitment to training and support of staff in this context
- describe how the centre will respond to suspected child abuse and neglect

The policy is designed to meet provisions of the Children’s Act (2014), the Education and Training Act (2020), the Education (Early Childhood Education) Regulations 2008, and the Early Childhood Education Licensing Criteria HS31.

For the purpose of this policy, abuse is used in the context of adult to child. This could be staff to child or an adult (outside of the centre) to the child.

Abuse relating to child-to-child or child-to-adult is not within the scope of this policy.

Issues relating to child-to-child or child-to-adult behaviours is covered by C10, whereby behaviour is managed by positively seeking to develop social competence in children that helps them to establish and maintain appropriate relationships with children and adults.

Position Statements

We have an obligation to ensure the wellbeing of children in our care and are committed to the prevention of child abuse and neglect and to the protection of all children. The safety and wellbeing of the child is our top priority.

We support families/whānau to protect their children.

We provide a safe environment, free from physical, emotional, verbal or sexual abuse.

Our centre is committed to work with other agencies where necessary to respond to the needs of vulnerable children and families/whānau.

Issue Outline

Child abuse and neglect is not acceptable. Children need our protection.

Prevention is always better than cure. Adults need to be vigilant and provide protection to the children in their care.

The ECE sector has a key role to play in providing a safe environment for children, free from physical, emotional, verbal or sexual abuse and also supporting families/whānau to protect their children.

If we believe a child is in immediate danger, our staff will phone New Zealand Police on 111.

If we are concerned about the wellbeing of a child, or want to discuss, report, or refer a concern, our staff will contact Oranga Tamariki:

- Phone 0508 EDASSIST (0508 332 774)
- Email edassist@ot.govt.nz

If parents have concerns about the safety and wellbeing of a child then they should approach one of our staff. Discussions of such matters will need to take place in private.

Definitions

Child Abuse is defined by Oranga Tamariki as “any child or young person that has been, or is likely to be, harmed (whether physically, emotionally, or sexually), ill-treated, abused, neglected or deprived”.

Child Abuse can be:

- Physical Abuse
- Emotional Abuse
- Verbal Abuse
- Sexual Abuse
- Neglect.

Child Neglect “is a pattern of behaviour which occurs over a period of time and results in impaired functioning or development of a child. It is the failure to provide for a child’s basic needs.

Neglect may be:

- Physical - failure to provide necessary basic needs of food, shelter or warmth
- Medical - failure to seek, obtain or follow through with medical care for the child
- Abandonment - leaving a child young person in any situation without arranging necessary care for them and with no intention of returning
- Neglectful supervision – failure to provide developmentally appropriate or legally required supervision
- Refusal to assume parental responsibility - unwillingness or inability to provide appropriate care for a child.”

Our centre staff undertakes documented efforts (i.e. records of professional training undertaken on the subject and/or information shared amongst staff or sought from agencies, advice sought and received, or other efforts undertaken) to gain an understanding of child abuse and neglect as defined by Oranga Tamariki.

The centre will review this policy every three years and share information about centre practices with parents, as per HS31 of the Licensing Criteria.

Policy principles: How does our centre keep children safe?

The interest and protection of the child is paramount in all actions.

Centre strategies will emphasise prevention of child neglect and abuse and support for families.

We recognise the rights of family/whānau to participate in the decision-making about their children.

We recognise children's rights to make decisions about themselves and have agency.

We have a commitment to ensure that all staff are able to identify the signs and symptoms of potential abuse and neglect and are empowered to take appropriate action in response.

In order for children to be safe from abuse and or neglect, both parents and teachers need a shared understanding of what abuse and neglect is, how it can present, and how it can be prevented. This shared understanding and commitment is shared with parents and whānau.

We are committed to supporting all staff to work in accordance with this policy, to work with partner agencies and organisations to ensure child protection policies are consistent and of high quality.

We will always comply with relevant legislative responsibilities.

We are committed to share information in a timely way and to discuss any concerns about an individual child with colleagues or the Person in Charge.

We are committed to promote a culture where staff feel confident that they can raise issues of concern without fear of reprisal.

Detail

Competent and supported staff

We make sure all staff know and understand what abuse and neglect are, and how to recognise indicators (see Appendix 1).

We make sure that all staff know and understand that corporal punishment and seclusion of children are strictly prohibited in our centre, in line with Section 24 of the Education and Training Act 2020.

We encourage our staff to talk to someone experienced, for a different point of view, or for ideas about how to support families / whānau. We also have these contacts readily displayed on our noticeboard and in newsletters:

- Understanding Safe Practice: Respond appropriately to a child who initiates physical contact in seeking affection, reassurance or comfort. It is not appropriate to force any form of unwanted affection/touching on a child. Touching should not be initiated to gratify adult needs. Physical contact during the changing or cleansing of children must be for the purpose of that task only and not be more than is necessary for the job
- Never take a child from the centre without the permission of a parent, except in the case of an emergency.

Preventing Contact, Identifying, and Responding to suspected abuse

Preventing Contact

If you suspect someone of child abuse, you must prevent them from coming into contact with any children at your service. You may need to exclude them from your premises (see Regulation 56).

People who are unwell could be unwell physically or mentally. If you suspect someone of being physically or mentally unwell in a way that could pose a risk to children, you must prevent them from coming into contact with any children at your service, which may involve excluding them from your premises (see Regulation 57):

Physical or mental unwellness includes:

- any physical or mental condition that could be dangerous (for example, strange or disturbing behaviour, aggression)
- any infectious or contagious disease or condition (for example, the flu or COVID-19)

Alcohol / Drugs:

You must ensure that no adults in your service community are abusing or are under the influence of alcohol or any other substance that has a detrimental effect on their behaviour or ability to function during service hours (including drop-offs and pick-ups). It applies to any adult in your service community, including any adults living in a home where home-based education and care takes place.

Making sure adults with access to children are safe

Safety checking

You must carry out a formal safety check on your children's workers before they can start work, and then re-check them every three years (see Part 3 of the Children's Act). Nearly everyone working in your early learning service is considered a children's worker.

Responding

- Anyone can report child abuse
- If a child is in danger, call 111
- Responding to a child when the child discloses abuse or when there are concerns about abuse or neglect – a phone call to Oranga Tamariki to discuss appropriate next steps
- Responding to more general concerns about the wellbeing of a child, where referral to the statutory agencies (Oranga Tamariki or the Police) is not appropriate – e.g., referral to a family/whānau support agency in the community, such as Social Workers in Schools, Strengthening Families or Whānau Ora is more appropriate.
- Process of Responding to a child when the child discloses abuse:

1) Listen to the child	Disclosures by children are often subtle and need to be handled with particular care, including an awareness of the child’s cultural identity and how that affects interpretation of their behaviour and language.
2) Reassure the child	Let the child know that they: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Are not in trouble. • Have done the right thing.
3) Ask open-ended prompts – e.g., “What happened next?”	Do not interview the child (in other words, do not ask questions beyond open prompts for the child to continue). Do not make promises that can’t be kept, e.g., “I will keep you safe now”.
4) If the child is visibly distressed	Provide appropriate reassurance and re-engage in appropriate activities under supervision until they are able to participate in ordinary activities.
5) If the child is not in immediate danger	Re-involve the child in ordinary activities and explain what you are going to do next.
6) If the child is in immediate danger	Contact the Police immediately
7) As soon as possible formally record the disclosure	Record: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Word for word, what the child said. • The date, time and who was present.

- Responding to other concerns

Where a concern about a child doesn't amount to suspicion of abuse or neglect, it could be harmful to the wellbeing of the child and their family/whānau to make a notification to the statutory agencies. Instead, organisations should work to partner with social service providers in their communities to identify and address the needs of the child.

The services available in each community will vary and may include a range of government and non-government providers who will be able to help the child and their family/whānau. For example, Strengthening Families, Whānau Ora, Iwi Social Services, Social Workers in Schools, Children's Teams, family/whānau counselling agencies, budget services and mental health and drug and alcohol services.

Confidentiality and information sharing

The Privacy Act 2020 and the Children's Act 2014 allow information to be shared to keep children safe when abuse or suspected abuse is reported or investigated. Under the Children's Act, any person who believes that a child has been, or is likely to be, harmed physically, emotionally or sexually or ill-treated, abused, neglected or deprived may report the matter to Oranga Tamariki or the Police and, provided that the report is made in good faith, no civil, criminal or disciplinary proceedings may be brought against them.

Please note the ECC recommends that all instances of suspected abuse be reported to Oranga Tamariki. If staff are in doubt, the decision to report should be referred to the Managers and Team Leaders Responsible for a final decision. In making this decision to report or not, the staff will need to be able to show that the decision they made was a reasonable one based on the information they have or should have asked for (including physical, behavioural and anecdotal). In addition, putting aside potential bias, they should consider whether a reasonable person in their shoes would have come to a different view and suspected potential child abuse. Failure to exercise a decision to this high standard potentially places child wellbeing at high risk. ECC will be available to assist if you are or your staff need urgent assistance with this matter. Call 0800 742 742 option 5 or 3.
